What is a Health History?

Complimentary Transformation Session

Imagine 30 minutes of undivided attention, with someone who is really interested in you. Imagine discussing the following:

- What works and what doesn't work living inside your body?
- Health-wise, what are your goals and concerns?
- What do you wish you could accomplish if you knew you would not fail?
- Is the food you are eating really helping you with your weight, health, and energy goals, or might there be some confusion?
- Do you wonder why you experience cravings?
- Do you feel more tired than you would like?

During a complimentary Health History Transformation Session, you will sit with me in the comfort of my office, or via video conferencing from your home or office, to discuss you. In a friendly, interactive manner, I will inquire about some of the aspects of your life, work schedule, stress level, nutrition and food practices that will shed light and provide self-discovery on your part, plus ideas for a plan to get healthier and feel better. My clients often report feeling empowered and enlightened simply by being led to inquire in ways that are new for them. Personally, I enjoy the Health History because it helps me get to know you in ways that are very interesting and useful to me and often illuminating for you.

I look forward to our time together.

“After my session with you I felt enlightened. I loved your approach of encouraging me not to dwell on, but to acknowledge and throw the hurt behind me through a healthy process of forgiveness. I appreciated that you were sensitive to each subject I shared and helped me with a few word choices that helped me feel empowered.

Client, Jonathan (Jojo) LaBrae
